

Science of Hypnotism

7.45pm on the 12th of July in
The Mercantile, Dame Street

Dr Vaughan Bell of King's College London will discuss the psychology and neuroscience of hypnosis, which is being investigated by scientists wanting to understand altered mental states, suggestion and consciousness.

Admission is free and there is finger food provided

In Association with The logo for the Cognitive Psychology Laboratory (CPL) at King's College London, featuring the letters 'cpl' in a stylized font with a blue mouse cursor arrow pointing to the 'l'.

www.alchemistcafedublin.com